The Southernmost House

YOU'RE
90 MILES
FROM CUBA

LOCATION KEY WEST, FLORIDA

The stairs here emit a charming creak, as if Florida Curry Harris, daughter of the state's first millionaire, were descending them to welcome you to her 1896 mansion—which is literally on the southernmost point in the continental United States. The vibe here is certainly more akin to Mrs. Harris' Victoriana than Mr. Buffett's Margaritaville. A homey lobby leads out to the seawall, lined with chairs facing a vast watery infinity. (Cuba is out there, just 90 miles away.) After marveling at your end-of-the-road location, enjoy the amenities around you: a zero-entry pool gracefully sloping from shallow to deep; a pop-up bar; four-poster beds; and morning breakfast. Remember, this is Key West—you must partake in Mallory Square sunsets, galleries of local art, and restaurants teeming with daily catches. The island also has a bustling bar scene.

BONUS POINTS: Guests at the inn hop into a pink golf cart for complimentary trolley service down happening Duval Street. Rates from $315; southernmosthouse.com
